

Housing Stabilization Services Guide for Billable Activities

Understanding, tracking, and correctly documenting the various types of billable services within the Housing Stabilization Services program is an important part of building a sustainable program. This guide will help providers correctly translate the services and supports provided to their clients into billable claims.

Note: Official guidance on billable activities is available on the Minnesota Department of Human Services' Housing Stabilization Services Policy page. This document is intended to help Housing Stabilization Services providers consider and implement this guidance in the context of their own organizations.

Key questions to ask

When determining whether a particular activity or service is billable, consider:

Is the activity being done with a specific client or on behalf of a specific client?

- ✓ Example A: Meeting with prospective landlord to see if they have a unit available for a particular client
- ✗ Meeting with prospective landlord to educate them about your program

Does the activity support the client's goals as related to housing stability?

- ✓ Example B: Practicing anxiety management techniques and discussing how to implement them to improve their relationship with their landlord or neighbor
- ✗ Practicing anxiety management techniques

Does it fit under an allowable activity within Housing Stabilization Services?

Example A → Housing Transition Service: "Assisting the person with the housing search and application process"

Example B → Housing Sustaining Service: "Coaching to develop and maintain key relationships with property managers and neighbors"

Methods of service delivery: Understanding remote and indirect services

The chart below outlines the various methods of delivery that providers may want to use for Housing Stabilization Services. If there are percentage limitations on those activities, as with remote contact, that is noted. All interactions must be documented in your agency’s systems and that documentation should lead to the creation of a claim for payment of services. Such documentation is subject to audit and review by DHS and/or Managed Care Organizations that have been or will be billed for payment. Document in case notes whether the activity was provided directly OR indirectly. If a direct service, include whether or not the service was provided remotely. For additional details regarding documentation requirements, refer to the Housing Stabilization Services section of the Minnesota Health Care Programs provider manual.

	Direct/In-person	Direct/ Remote	Indirect
Definition	Face-to-face physically with the person	Phone, video conferencing or text message directly with the person (length of time communicating must meet the 8 minute rule to be billable)	Tasks performed on behalf of the person without the person being present
Eligible activities	All activities may be provided directly	All activities may be provided remotely (exception: transportation while working with a client on housing stability)	Only certain activities can be provided indirectly (those designated with an asterisk on the DHS Housing Stabilization Services policy website)
Limits	No limit	Limited to 50% of direct services annually An approved Remote Support exception allows up to 75% of direct services annually	Expectation is that majority of services are provided as direct service

This chart is also available on the DHS Housing Stabilization Services Policy Page.

How much time spent counts as a “billable unit”?

Housing Transition and Housing Sustaining Services are billed in 15-minute units. To bill for a 15-minute unit, you must provide at least 8 minutes of service. For example, if you provide 8-22 minutes of service, you may bill for one 15-minute unit. If you provide 23-37 minutes of service, you may bill for two 15-minute units. Additional guidance for tracking time and billing from CMS is available here.

Examples

Housing Stabilization Services provided in a month

3 units in person + 1 unit remote = 4 units of direct services

$1 / 4 = 25\%$ of direct services provided remotely

Less than 50% of direct services → OK ✓

(Indirect services should be disregarded in this calculation.)

Another way to think of it: For every hour/unit you spend with the client remotely, make sure to spend that same amount in person. Remember that it is looked at over the entire year of service.
